

No Hecklers for Wallace at Duluth

By JULES LOH
Associated Press Writer
DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — George C. Wallace came to the Duluth Arena, which 6,350 people filled to capacity Thursday night, with a bouquet of roses to toss to hecklers.

But there was no heckling. About 50 or 100 persons walked out early in his speech without fuss. The rest of the audience applauded politely, and at times enthusiastically, but were markedly more restrained than other audiences in recent days.

Consequently, when Wallace came to his customary criticism of the press and singled out his favorite target, the New York Times, an aide delivered a single rose to correspondent Martin Waldron who responded with a bow.

Aboard his airplane enroute to Duluth, Wallace strolled the aisle making jokes with the reporters accompanying him. "You boys better start writing some good things about me," he said. "I look like I'm going to make it."

Predicting how he thought press reaction to his candidacy would change in the 3½ weeks remaining until election day, Wallace quipped: "It's like when Napoleon escaped from Elba. The first headlines said, 'The beast has escaped, he's in Granada.' But by the time he got to Paris the headlines were, 'Our great emperor has returned.'"

To typically responsive crowds of 4,000 at the courthouse in Evansville, Ind., and 6,000 to 7,000 at the City Hall in Peoria, Ill., Wallace repeated his charge that the polls were "rigged" in favor of his Republican opponent, Richard M. Nixon.

In more weighty portions of his speeches in both cities he stressed his pledge to end the Vietnam war militarily with conventional weapons if peace talks fail. In Evansville he announced he would send his running mate, Curtis E. LeMay, the former Air Force chief of staff, on a four-day fact-finding trip to Vietnam.

He told his Peoria audience: "If you're strong, you can go to the conference table, if you're weak, you can be blackmailed."

The Great Seal of the United States was adopted on June 20, 1782. It had been proposed and designed by William Barton.

Nixon Would Meet With Allied Heads

By FRANK CORMIER
Associated Press Writer
DALLAS (AP) — Richard M. Nixon, predicting he'll "win big" in November, already is thinking about a possible post-election trip to Europe to meet with allied leaders.

Before flying to Dallas Thursday night from Akron, Ohio, the Republican presidential candidate met with former Gov. William W. Scranton of Pennsylvania, just back from a 20-day fact-finding mission to Western Europe on Nixon's behalf.

It was Scranton who disclosed, at a news conference, that Nixon would like preinaugural meeting with leaders of Western Europe should he gain the White House.

Scranton said Nixon would want to talk personally with as many European leaders as possible, assuming he is elected. The Nixon campaign rolled through Illinois and Ohio Thursday with one public appearance in each state.

Speaking to an overflow crowd of more than 5,000 in a university field house at Akron, Nixon first tried to ignore anti-war chants by some 40 demonstrators. Then he said, as he had in similar situations before, that at a Nixon rally his backers shout down the hecklers. Then he waved his hand in mock salute to the protestors while many in the crowd faced them with thumbs-down gestures.

To a heckler-free crowd of 6,500 in a field house at Moline, Ill., the GOP nominee said: "We're going to win in Illinois. We're going to win in the nation. We're going to win big."

Before his Akron rally, Nixon issued a statement aimed at breaking the traditional allegiance of labor to Democrats.

"The rank and file of American labor is rightly resentful of the way some union treasurers are being emptied to support the sagging campaign of an administration that has proven to be a false friend of labor," he said.

He said Democrats had broken their contract with labor "by failing to fight inflation."

Flies Plane With Severed Arm

PORT ARTHUR, Ont. (AP) — Brian Steed, 28-year-old missionary turned bush pilot, told from his hospital bed here how he flew his light plane 15 miles after the propeller severed his right arm near the shoulder.

Steed said he had landed his pontoon plane on a lake near Green Water Lake to scout the shoreline for International Nickel Co. Stepping onto a pontoon he was struck by the whirling prop and thrown into the water.

The airman said he finally got back into the cockpit, "prayed and fastened my seat belt," and took off for Lake Shebandowano where his employer, Austin Airways of Toronto, maintains a base. Another pilot flew Steed 60 miles to the hospital.

lot-like helmet of earlier suits, there is a plastic bubbletop to provide full vision.

Schirra and Cunningham were first out of the van and up the elevator to the 220-foot spacecraft level of the launch stand. With the help of a suit technician, a mechanical technician, the pad leader, an inspector and one of the backup astronauts, Navy Cmdr. John Young, they slid into the left and right seats, respectively.

Then Elsie, who had remained in the van, came up the elevator and climbed into the center seat.

When Schirra settled in his seat and hooked up his communications, he said "good morning" to the spacecraft conductor Skip Chauvin in the enclosed blockhouse. Asked how he felt, he replied "I feel very good."

Later, looking out the spacecraft window, Schirra said: "Sorry you can't see out today, Skip. It's sure pretty."

The three astronauts did not go up at the same time because of limited space in the spacecraft area and in the elevator.

As the astronauts left their ready room quarters, Schirra waved to acknowledge the applause of hundreds of space workers gathered outside the building, in hallways and on rooftops.

As the astronauts got ready for their big day, the launch crew was busy pumping 86,900 gallons of liquid oxygen and 64,000 gallons of liquid hydrogen fuel into the huge rocket.

Earlier, 42,100 gallons of kerosene had been loaded aboard the first stage.

Cites Need for Active President

By CARL P. LEUBSDORF
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Hubert H. Humphrey says he favors an even more active presidency in the years ahead because "there is so much that needs to be done."

The Democratic presidential nominee spoke with unusual passion and vehemence Thursday night in two speeches, one to a fund-raising meeting of apparel industry leaders, the second to the annual dinner of the Queens County Democratic Committee.

In speaking to the clothing manufacturers, Humphrey emphasized the importance of the president as the sole nationally elected leader and asserted his belief that "one man can make a difference."

"I say what is needed," he went on, "it is not less action by the presidency but even more if that is possible, dedicated action, not just action for action's sake, because there is so much that needs to be done."

He referred to such things as "the bigness and complexity of our society," the fact that "a layer of filth" hangs over every major American city and the need for "justice for the black man, the Spanish-speaking American and for the American Indian."

Then, he went to the Queens County dinner, at which Mrs. Humphrey had been the featured speaker, and said "You give me New York's (43) electoral votes and we'll go out and get the others and we'll have a Democrat in the White House in 1969."

The apparel industry dinner raised $102,500 for the financially hard-pressed Humphrey campaign.

Highlights Scheduled for 11-Day Flight

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Here are highlights scheduled for the 11-day flight of Apollo 7:

Launch Day
Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Air Force Maj. Donn F. Elisele and civilian astronaut Walter Cunningham blast off at 11 a.m. EDT into oval-shaped earth orbit ranging from 142 to 176 miles high. About three hours after liftoff, crew uses the orbiting upper stage of Apollo 7's Saturn 1B booster rocket to rehearse docking techniques to be done when later Apollo craft fly to the moon.

Second Day
After separating from the orbiting rocket stage to a distance of 83 miles, Apollo 7's main 21,000-pound-thrust engine is triggered two times, about 26 and 28 hours after liftoff, to rendezvous with the booster, simulating how an Apollo spacecraft in lunar orbit might rescue astronauts in a moon-landing craft stranded in the wrong orbit around the moon.

Third Day
Apollo 7 tracks orbiting rocket from distances up to 370 miles to test spacecraft's ability to line up a rendezvous target. Astronauts use sextant to see how well they can navigate by stars. They later photograph weather and terrain features on earth.

Fourth Day
Crew uses landmarks on earth to see if they can calculate their orbit, continue star-sighting tests and photograph more land and weather features. Main Apollo engine ignited third time to adjust orbit so astronauts can return to earth using maneuvering rockets if main engine should fail.

Fifth Day
Engineering test of spacecraft radiators to see how well they cool components. Navigation test using combination of stars and earth's horizon.

Sixth Day
First of two minimum impulse burns of main Apollo engine to see if short bursts of the motor could be used to save fuel in spacecraft maneuvering rockets. More navigation experiments.

Seventh Day
Longest firing of main Apollo engine. Burn lasts 57 seconds to adjust orbit toward better recovery zone, with Schirra switching from automatic to manual control for last 30 seconds of burn.

Eighth Day
More land and weather photography. Test of backup coolant system in life-supporting environmental control system.

Ninth Day
Radar of type to be used in moon-landing. Lunar Module spacecraft beamed from ground to orbiting Apollo 7 to test Apollo's ability to lock onto it, as would be done for rendezvous in lunar orbit. Second minimum-impulse burn of main Apollo engine.

Tenth Day
Seventh main engine burn, lasting about eight seconds, to adjust orbit for better landing.

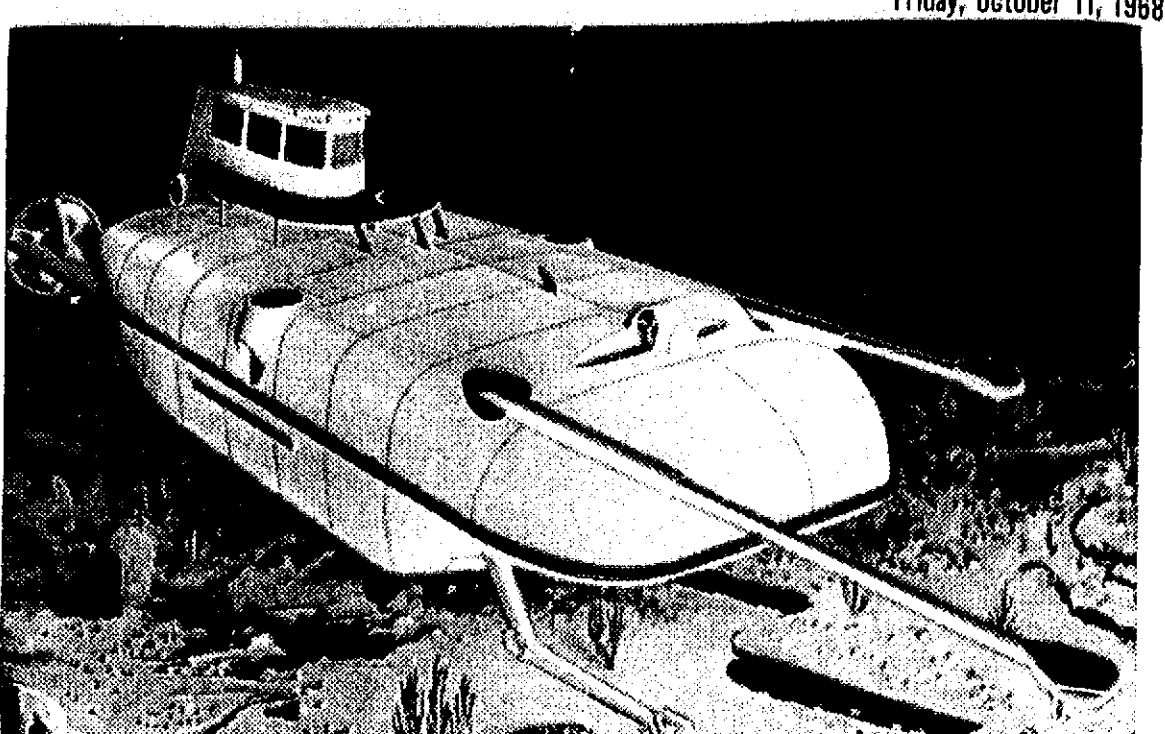

Final Day
Apollo 7 fires main engine final time to re-enter after 163 orbits and parachute to a landing in Atlantic Ocean, 230 miles south-southwest of Bermuda.

Hippie Leader on Poverty Payroll

NEW YORK (AP) — Yippee leader Abbie Hoffman was on the city's antipoverty payroll when he led antiwar demonstrations at the Democratic National Convention, City Councilmen Bertrand Gelfand, a Bronx Democrat, said Wednesday.

A spokesman for the Human Resources Administration said Hoffman, 32, went on the payroll July 15 as a $40-a-day consultant for a $120,000 free store experiment for hippies in the East Village.

The spokesman added that Hoffman did not draw pay during the week of the Democratic convention Aug. 26.

DEEPSTAR 2,000 underwater research vehicle, shown in this artist's sketch, is nearing completion. The new submersible is to be launched late this year and ready for operations in early 1969. At that time, it will be assigned to the Westinghouse Ocean Research Laboratory at San Diego, Calif., where it will be used in research and as a test bed for prototype instrumentation. The submersible is 20 feet long, seven feet wide and capable of carrying two scientists and a pilot to depths of at least 2,000 feet.

day by the House.

Besides making it illegal to buy through the mail outside the state in which you live, the bill bans sales of firearms or ammunition to juveniles, fugitives, mental incompetents, drug addicts or persons under criminal indictment.

It forbids over-the-counter sales of pistols to anyone under 21 and rifles and shotguns to those under 18. Similar age limits would apply to the sale of ammunition.

There was little real opposition to the compromise although the relatively narrow margin for passage — 160 to 129 — reflected a last-ditch effort by opponents to sidetrack the bill until next year.

Some members objected to two provisions in the compromise that changed the measure from the way it originally passed the House.

Rep. Clark MacGregor, R-Minn., objected to the bans on all ammunition. He had successfully sponsored an amendment to exclude ammunition for rifles, shotguns and 22-caliber target pistols.

He said the measure, as it now stands, would subject sportsmen and hunters to harassment and inconvenience.

The conference weakened provision calling for mandatory additional prison terms for persons convicted of using a firearm in the commission of a federal crime.

The compromise gives a judge discretion to suspend or grant probation for a first offender who uses or carries a gun while committing a federal felony or to give a 1-to-10-year sentence. For second and subsequent offenders a mandatory 5-to-25 years is required.

It also permits the sentences to be served concurrently with the penalty of the actual crime.

The original House version made the penalty mandatory and required it to be served consecutively.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — Early signs, as revealing as the width of caterpillars' stripes and the thickness of squirrels' coats, indicate that the television audience is facing a long, hot winter.

From "Mod Squad" to "Dragonet," from "Hawaii Five-O" to "Ironside," the script writers, aware of the current low status of physical violence, are punching up their stories with fiery words and hostility. And the two favorite subjects, it seems, are hostile youth and hostile minorities.

Thursday night's "Hawaii Five-O" put together a piece about a faked kidnapping that turned into the real thing, but they dressed it up with the character of a young singer who had lost communication with his millionaire father.

"Ironside" started out with the fatal knifing of the owner of a shop hit by looters. But the murder was almost incidental to the tensions built up involving Negro extremists and one especially angry militant charged with the crime. A bit about white extremists also was thrown in.

When the announcement came, it was almost an anti-climax. Theory seem to be that long-time favorite of then-Hollywood production line; the tired businessman who wanted to get rid of his wife and run away with a flimsy associate and the firm's money.

"Mod Squad" specializes in stories about disaffected youth and the generation gap. It's very well to try to tell it like it is, but not all the time, please.

In the old days, television's situation comedies were frequently rapped for a tendency to make the father look and act like an idiot while mother was wise and all-knowing.

"Blondie," CBS' new early evening series, avoids that trap: It makes all the grown-ups—father, mother, the boss and the boss' wife—look and act like boobs. The two kids and their dog are the smart ones.

Will Hutchins plays Dagwood in bangs; Patricia Harty is Blondie in corkscrew curls, and the whole thing is pretty dismal. Recommended weekend viewing:

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

BAR-HABITUATES ARE BAD MEDICINE

Dear Helen: He drinks too much. That's his only fault. It doesn't interfere with his work except on a few mornings, and he slows down in the afternoons after a three-martini lunch. But he spends most evenings in bars. That's his entertainment. He likes to meet people there. And he gets "smashed" almost every night.

I know I'll never meet another man I love as much. Should I take a chance and marry him in the hope that marriage will keep him away from booze? He won't make any promises, as he doesn't think liquor is his problem. I'm afraid it will be as in the five years I've known him he has been squiffed or hungover more than sober. Am I a fool? — HOOKED ON A BAR HABITUATE

Dear Hooked: You are "Bar-thritis" (stiff in the joints) can't be cured — or arrested — until the "sufferer" realizes he has a disease. When a man enjoys getting drunk there isn't much hope of change. A wife's "reform program" might turn him into a real alcoholic. — H.

Dear Helen: In the column about illegitimate births, it was mentioned that a possible explanation for their increase was, "Among poorer people, a new baby means a bigger welfare check."

This is a charge commonly leveled at ADC (Aid to Dependent Children). The uninformed accuse the program of giving an incentive for more babies in the form of increased payments. True, the welfare check gets bigger with each child, but big enough to adequately feed, clothe and support a human being according to prevailing standards of living. In our State, one of the most generous, a pregnant woman with one child receiving welfare assistance gets $148.00 per month for herself and child, plus $20.00 for the unborn. Upon the birth of the baby, she receives $172.00 a month. By the time she has had six children, she'll be getting $330.00 a month! Try to support a big family on that! — SOCIAL WORKER

Dear Helen: "Kept Under Wraps" couldn't understand why people were "shocked at nakedness, and accused them of having 'depraved thoughts.'" At the risk of being labeled "depraved," I must take exception. He said he wanted to be "as God made us." He gets this inside information from the Bible, for it says in Genesis that God made man naked.

However, "KUW" apparently has never read Genesis, Chapter 3, for he says "man clothed himself for protection against the elements and somehow it got all mixed up with morals. . . ." In the story of Adam and Eve, it is written that after the Apple, they knew they were naked (for they had sinned and therefore knew good and evil). Then they made a temporary covering of fig leaves, after which God made them a permanent covering of skins.

There are at least four conclusions to be drawn from the Biblical record: 1. Before man disobeyed God, he did not recognize he was naked; 2. When man disobeyed God, he knew, and covered himself; 3. God gave him a more permanent covering; 4. Nudity, morals, clothes, and disobedience to God have a relationship to each other. — A "DEPRAVED" MINISTER

Restless Night for Families of Astronauts

By HARRY F. ROSENTHAL

Associated Press Writer
SPACE CENTER, HOUSTON (AP) — On the night before her husband is rocketed into space, Mrs. Walter M. Schirra Jr. always sleeps well. "It's the night before the night before that is the restless one," she has said. Josephine Schirra has had more of these than any of the other astronaut wives. Wally was in an October 1962 Mercury flight. And in December 1965 commanded the two-man Gemini 4 that achieved the first American rendezvous with another manned spacecraft.

Mrs. Schirra said little as she prepared for her third night before—this time, Apollo 7. She obliged a photographer by going out and raking leaves with the help of her 11-year-old daughter Suzanne, but her heart obviously wasn't in it.

Most of the friends who helped her wait out the Gemini launch planned to be at the Schirras' home at Timber Cove near the Manned Spacecraft Center today.

In 1965 Marge Slayton, wife of Donald K. Slayton, director of flight crew operations, arrived in a long flannel granny gown, old-fashioned night cap, and a bottle of champagne—a successful scheme to break the tension. Marge was expected to be one of those on hand today.

Also expected were the wives of astronauts—or former astronauts—John J. Glenn Jr., G. Gordon Cooper and Alan B. Shepard Jr. Trudy Cooper and Louise Shepard were there three years ago, too.

Walter M. Schirra III, who was 12 when his father went up in the Mercury capsule, now is at Stanford University and will wait out the launch there. But Mrs. James Pickett of Arlington, Va., Mrs. Schirra's sister, will be at the Schirras' home.

The wives of the two other astronauts—Air Force Maj. Donn F. Elsie and civilian Walter Cunningham—were more prone to night-before jitters. This is the first time into space for their husbands.

The Elses live in El Lago, not far from the Schirras. Harriet Elsie planned to watch the launch on television with 14-year-old Melinda, 14, Donn 12, and Jon Jr., 10. The older children were excused from school.

Others invited to the Elsie home were the wives of astronauts John W. Young and Thomas P. Stafford; their minister at Seabrook Methodist Church, the Rev. Bob Parrott and his wife; and Mrs. Elsie's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Harry D. Hamilton of Gnadenhuetten, Ohio.

Lo Ella Cunningham was farthest from the eyes of the public. She and her children, Brian, 8, and Kimberly, 5, were on a boat in a river near Cape Kennedy. Television sets were on board as a backdrop—but she hoped to get a good view of the actual launch.

Mrs. Cunningham, who flew to the cape Wednesday night for a final visit with her husband, planned to return to their home near here tonight.

There are loudspeakers in each astronaut's home tied to the global network that tracks the space flight—so each wife can hear her husband go about his routine. And each home has three television sets.

Remember when the family would gather at grandpa's on a Saturday night and entice him to get out his fiddle for a little session? If so, then a reminder isn't necessary because those times were happy enough to remember always.

The fiddle held many fond memories for grandpa, too. He would keep the case will hidden, high in a closet or barricaded under the bed to keep the kids from pulling it out and twanging the strings.

It was quite a show, though, when grandpa got to going on the fiddle, patting his foot, humming and chewing his tobacco in a hypnotizing rhythm.

For those who relish fiddle music, then the event planned a week from tomorrow will be one not to miss. The Arkansas Fiddlers Association in conjunction with the Boston Mountain Recreation Association is planning a fiddler's contest at Winslow.

The event is designed to raise money for the Winslow School District. So, the contestants will not only fiddle your time away, but also your money, so to speak.

An hour of entertainment is planned before the contest. Luke Jeter, president of the association, will perform his latest record, "The Joe Willard Waltz."

Fiddlers will play three tunes of their choice and a hoedown. There will be an eight minute time limit. Judges will come from Arkansas, Oklahoma and Texas.

Jeter said the contest is up for a national rating and could become a national contest.

Travelers who pass John Glover's shop at Forrest City will see an unusual sight. Parked in front of the shop is a 135-passenger lifeboat taken from an ocean-going steamer. Glover said he plans to convert the boat into a pirate ship and take it to the Lakeland Amusement Park at Memphis to provide rides for children.

Lolich Takes Fights Last Night

Detroit to World Title

By MIKE RATHET
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP) — It's 9:30 Wednesday night when suddenly there is a knock on the door. Mickey Lolich answers it, and watches with a quizzical look on his face as two men entered carrying a machine. At the same time, the good doctor leads Lolich to the bed and begins wiring his body.

"It looked like," said Lolich, "they were trying to make me a Frankenstein monster."

Instead, they made the hero of the 1968 World Series, for the strange-looking machine relaxed the muscles in his pitching arm enough so that, with only two days rest, he was able to pitch Detroit to a 4-1 victory over St. Louis in Thursday's decisive seventh game.

"The machine is a weird-looking thing," the champagne-drenched Lolich said afterward in the Detroit dressing room. "It's some kind of electric treatment monster. They hook all these wires up to you along with four wet sponge rubber pads on the front and back of the shoulder. I thought I might get electrocuted at any time."

"It feels like someone's grabbing and squeezing the tissues in your arm," he continued. "But the doctor said it would cause my muscles to relax, and when I went out to the bullpen I felt like a million dollars."

He looked like it to the Tigers as he stopped the Cardinals on five hits, won his third game of the seven-game set and achieved the distinction of ending Bob Gibson's string of Series victories at seven.

But you have to go back to a week ago Thursday and his first start to get a full appreciation of what the likeable 28-year-old left-hander achieved in practically singlehandedly pitching Detroit to its first world championship in 23 years.

In game 2, he went all the way in a six-hit, 8-1 victory—and also hit a homer—that squared the Series 1-1, after Gibson had put the Cardinals one-up by beating 31-game winner Denny McLain in their first confrontation.

Then, Monday, in game 5, with the Tigers down three games to one, Lolich gave up three runs in the first inning but hung on to start the Tigers' comeback with another routeing performance in a 5-3 triumph.

Finally, on Thursday, Lolich went back to the mound with just two days' rest and put together a masterpiece marred only by Mike Shannon's two-out homer in the ninth.

Besides the ninth, Lolich had only one other spot of trouble. In the sixth, darling Lou Brock singled. Cardinal fans got what they expected as the lithe outfielder stretched his lead off first base and appeared to be ready to make a dash for a record-breaking eighth stolen base.

"All of a sudden," said Lolich, "I heard Cash (first baseman Norm Cash) yell something. So I looked up and Brock was way off. I said to myself I'm going to throw the ball to Norm and let him make the mistake."

Cash didn't. Brock broke for second, but Cash's throw nailed him. One out later Curt Flood also singled and Lolich also picked him off. Then, in the seventh, the Tigers exploded for three runs.

And Lolich had all the support he needed to become only the 12th pitcher in World Series history to win three games in one Series.

Now the slightly paunchy southpaw, who won 17 games during the regular season, can return to his hobbies—archery, pistols, motorcycles—unless someone comes up with a job.

For right at this point Lolich trails the 31-game-winning McLain in the post-season appearance department.

"No," he said, referring to McLain's salary demands, "I don't think I'll make $100,000 next year. I'll be happy with $50,000. As a matter of fact, right now I don't have a job. I'll probably be on my motorcycle flying."

But he'll listen to any offers. "I play around a little with the drums," he said with a smile. "And I do some singing. Maybe somebody will want me."

Tigers Beat Cards, Take World Series

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP)—Willie Horton stood in the Detroit dugout watching Tiger catcher Bill Freehan settle under the pop fly.

"It was the darndest thing," said Horton, dripping from champagne in the soggy but happy Detroit dressing room Thursday. "He looked like Santa Claus to me catching that ball."

When Freehan squeezed the last out poppin' clinching Detroit's 4-1 seventh game victory and the world championship it set off a riotous celebration and meant a difference of about $4,000 a man for the Tigers.

Two innings earlier, Norm Cash and Horton had singled with two out against Bob Gibson, posing Detroit's first threat in the scoreless duel between the Cardinal ace and Mickey Lolich.

Then Jim Northrup hit a drive to center field. Curt Flood started in on the ball, then turned and stumbled. When Flood finally ran it down, Northrup had a triple and the Tigers were leading 2-0.

"I knew when he slipped that he'd never catch the ball," said Horton. "I said to myself, 'Run, run, run,' and I was going so hard I almost missed the turn at third base."

Bill Freehan followed with a run-scoring double and now the Tigers were nine outs away from the title.

Lolich, working with just two days rest, got them easily, disturbed only by Mike Shannon's two-out homer in the ninth, which cost him the shutout.

Cash, the Tigers' first baseman, described the feeling on the bench after Detroit had broken through against the seemingly invincible Gibson.

"We knew, with Mickey pitching so well, that if we could score, we'd beat him," said Cash. "Around the fifth or sixth inning we started getting good wood on the ball and we knew we'd break through. When we did, it was great."

Northrup, whose hit broke the tie, sympathized with Flood's problems on the ball.

"It was slippery out there from the rain the day before," the Tiger center fielder said.

"I knew I hit the ball well and that it had a chance to go for extra bases. When I wound up on third base and looked up at the scoreboard and saw those two runs up there, I knew we couldn't lose."

The turning point in the game may have been in the inning before the Tigers scored. Both Lou Brock and Curt Flood singled and both were picked off by Lolich.

Brock opened the Cardinal sixth with his record-tying 13th hit of the Series and, with a record eighth steal beckoning, he stepped off first farther and farther until Cash almost couldn't believe the size of his lead.

"I yelled for the ball," the Tiger first baseman explained. As Lolich threw, Brock took off and Cash fired to shortstop Mickey Stanley at second base for the putout.

The play was duplicated moments later when Flood singled and Lolich picked him off, too. "Mickey just guessed right on that one," said Cash.

The Tigers then broke through against Gibson and became only the fourth team in Series history to win the title after being down three games to one. The others were the 1903 Boston Red Sox in a nine-game Series and the 1925 Pittsburgh Pirates and 1958 New York Yankees in seven-game sets. Detroit was an 8-1 underdog after dropping three of the first four.

Lolich, who pitched a five-hitter for his third Series victory, earned the car awarded to the most valuable player. Mayo Smith, manager of the Tigers, may have earned even more.

When John Feltzer, the club's owner, embraced him and called him "my manager of the year," Mayo smiled and said, "Just remember, my contract is up this year."

It's a cinch he'll get a fatter one for 1969.

Winningest Coach

NEW YORK (NEA)—The nation's winningest college football coach?

It's Bob Devaney of Nebraska. In 11 years, he has won 88 games, lost 22 and tied five for a .787 percentage. Johnny Vaught of TCU is second with a record of 163-48-11 for a .750 percentage and Paul (Bear) Bryant of Alabama is third with 179 wins, 53 losses and 15 ties for a .755 percentage.

But there were controversies. John Clau Ganga, secretary general for the Supreme Council for Sports in Africa, demanded that South Africa be barred from all competition all over the world and said: "We have asked the IOC to take up this question with the International federation in all sports. We want inter-racial competition inside South Africa."

There was no immediate response from the IOC, but the Russians backed the move. It was for its racial policies—

Brundage Will Again Head the Olympics

By BOB GREEN
Associated Press Sports Writer
MEXICO CITY (AP) — Controversies, ranging from shoes to South Africa and from politics to professionals, continued to plague the troubled 19th Olympic Games on the eve of the opening ceremonies.

The Supreme Council for Sports in Africa demanded that South Africa be barred from competition in all sports throughout the world and Avery Brundage, 81-year-old Chicago millionaire who has ruled the International Olympic Committee with an iron hand for 16 years, won re-election as president of the group.

Those were among the political developments as the sacred Olympic flame, which has been transported by a vast relay of swimmers and runners, neared the Mexican capital.

It was scheduled to reach the pyramids of Teotihuacan tonight, before its final 34-mile relay to the 80,000-seat Olympic Stadium, near the University of Mexico, site last week's bloody rioting that left more than 50 dead.

For the first time ever a girl, Enriqueta Basilio Sotelo, will carry the flame on its last lap around the track, up the stadium steps and light the Olympic flame Saturday at the opening ceremonies.

And, for the first time ever, a woman will carry the flag and head the American delegation. She is Mrs. Janice York Romney, of Woodlog Hills, Calif., a former competing in her sixth Olympics.

The city remained calm, even light-hearted as the opening of the Games approached. The youth of Mexico welcomed the youth of the world with a gymnastics display in the main government square, Zocalo. Two helicopters hovered over the flower-bedecked square looking for trouble-makers. There were none.

But there were controversies. John Clau Ganga, secretary general for the Supreme Council for Sports in Africa, demanded that South Africa be barred from all competition all over the world and said: "We have asked the IOC to take up this question with the International federation in all sports. Thinks Hope Will Lose at Texarkana

By HARRY KING
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — Springdale achieved a victory of sorts last week, but wound up on the short end of a 28-20 score.

The Bulldogs became the first team to score a touchdown on Fort Smith Northside, and they did so in triplicate. The question is how much did the loss take out of Springdale.

North Little Rock should supply the answer Friday night. The Wildcats put together one of their best games of the season last week and walloped El Dorado 37-0.

In conference play, the game means nothing. The Wildcats are in Class AAAA, the Bulldogs in the Western Division of Class AAA. It should, however, have an influence on the Associated Press Arkansas High School football rankings where Springdale is sixth, a notch ahead of North Little Rock.

If the Bulldogs scored 20 on Northside they should be able to handle the Wildcats. SPRINGDALE 20, NORTH LITTLE ROCK 14.

Fort Smith Northside, placed on a pedestal until two weeks ago, will be trying to regain some of its glitter against Little Rock Central. Northside was tied 3-3 by Pine Bluff and then gave up 20 points last week to Springdale. Central was idle last week but the Tigers need more than an extra week to put them in Northside's class.

and the threatened boycott of several black African nations—that South Africa was barred from these Games, just one of many problems that have plagued the 1968 Olympics.

"I came here 81 and now I feel 91," Brundage said after coping with the myriad problems that faced him and turning back the challenge of the Comte Jean de Beaumont for the presidency.

In matters more athletic, the United States, which is expected to battle Russia for the top collection of medals among the 124 nations competing, got a couple of shots in the arm.

Debbie Meyer, the Sacramento, Calif., swimming sensation who is expected to win three events, tossed away the crutches she had been using to support a slightly injured left ankle and announced she was fine. And giant Randy Matson, slumpridden of late, got off a 70-2½ shot put.

Richard Henry Lee of Virginia made the formal motion for independence in the Continental Congress.

DUMP THE UMP—That seems to be the intention of Al Kalline, who brandishes the bat. Detroit star outfielder Kalline was miffed over a call by umpire Jerry Neudecker. Tiger teammate Willie Horton embraces Kalline to restrain him, while manager Mayo Smith (10) also lends a calming hand.

Washington High Is Rebuilding

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

Tomorrow night will be one of the last chances for the Hope Bobcats to get back on the right track, by winning big against Texarkana Washington in the Cats' second 4-AA Western Division ball game.

In Texarkana Washington the Bobcats will face a rather easy opponent in a rebuilding year. The rebuilding may not have effect, though, because Washington High is supposed to consolidate with Arkansas High either next year or in 1970. However, the Lions have yet to win a game, and this writer has found no evidence of them even scoring at all this season.

Actually, the Lions have fair size, though Hope will have an advantage of about 15 pounds per man in the line. When Texarkana Washington lines up on offense tomorrow night, they will always have a wingback to the right and an end, split about five yards to the weak side.

Not much worry here about the Hope defense, which does seem to improve each week. Jim Singleton has come around for a fine senior year at defensive end, and his pass rush has been very good. Mickey Allen has yet to meet his match at noseman, and he won't this week. Junior Mike McQueen is improving with age at tackle, and his 200-pound bulk can really plug up a hole.

Then there's Carroll Beck, who is the real boss at 220. Beck has shaken aside knee and elbow injuries to be outstanding on defense and among the quickest to reach the passer. Finally comes Ronny Brown, the junior end whose speed saved at least one touchdown last week when he caught 9.6 sprinter Cornell Williams from behind. That's the Bobcat defensive line, which along with the rest of their crew has held opponents to 13 points in the second half all season.

Out on the wing is Clarence Hubbard, a 160-pound senior who is almost totally used for blocking and pass receiving. He could, however, be the subject of a trick reverse, even though they haven't used it as yet.

Down in the line are some good blockers, most notably being Johnny Montgomery, a good 180-pound tackle, and guard Roy Jordan (170). Beside Montgomery at strongside guard will be Ben Hubbard, the smallest lineman at 155 pounds. At center is 165-pound senior Chris Brown, and he is also a good defensive performer. Finally, at weakside tackle will be Carl Ellis (170), who is a linebacker on defense.

At the split end on the weak side is Ray Collins, who is used for quick passes and most of the short hook patterns. Wilson Andrews is the other end, and he is the main target for the Lions' long bomb attempts.

The main problem for Texarkana Washington is an extreme lack of depth, while the Bobcats will start at least 16 or 17 boys with the rest having relief available. On defense the Lions will line up in a 5-4, with the linebackers stacking the strong side of the Hope offense, or where the slotback lines up.

If the need arises, the Lions can protect the weak side by switching to the evenly-spread

Thousands Join in Big Celebration

By JAMES R. NORMAN

DETROIT (AP) — Thousands of total strangers danced, hugged, kissed and ran screaming through the streets.

Teen-agers swam in downtown Detroit's Kennedy Square fountain. Two youths, one black and one white, rose dripping wet and hugged and danced until they lost their footing and fell back into the water.

"Higher, higher, higher," chanted the downtown crowd, "go, go, go," as youth after youth attempted to shimmy one of the two 100-foot flagpoles to place a Tigers banner alongside the Star and Stripes. The crowd roared when one finally made it to the top.

"We've been saying that pa-per for 23 years," a grizzled man joked as he waved to the blizzard of computer cards, tickertape, toilet paper, which fell knee-deep in some places.

"This town hasn't seen a celebration like this since the end of World War II," an oldtimer observed. "I guess you'd have to go back to VJ day," another agreed.

The Tigers brought the first world championship in 23 years to Detroit Thursday when they whipped the St. Louis Cardinals 4-1 in the final game of the World Series.

Picks Winners in Pro Play on Weekend

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer
ST. LOUIS (AP) — The first real big game of the pro football season matches the Los Angeles Rams and the Green Bay Packers at Milwaukee Sunday.

The unbeaten Rams still remember that 28-7 beating they took last December in Milwaukee and the twice beaten Packers have not forgotten the one they lost in the Coliseum 27-24 on a blocked punt.

Baltimore, Dallas and New York, the other perfect record clubs in the NFL, are favored to march right along to a fifth straight win. Oakland, only unbeaten team in the AFL, is expected to make it five in a row.

Last week's record was 9-4, with 7-1 in the NFL and 2-3 in the AFL, or 28-11 for the year. Let's try again with all games Sunday unless otherwise indicated:

NFL
Los Angeles 24, Green Bay 21—Rams rolling in high gear with airtight defense while Packers at 2-2 have been giving up more points than usual. Toughest game of the day, perhaps toughest of season.

Baltimore 27, San Francisco 17—Earl Morrall doing excellent job as sub for John Unitas with 10 TD passes in four wins. Colts have beaten 49ers 12 straight times and don't figure to stop now.

Detroit 21, Chicago 17—After Bill Ford lowered the boom on the Lions following last week's loss in Minnesota they should come out hungry for Bear meat. Bears have quarterback trouble but Gale Sayers will make it closer than last time.

Minnesota 28, New Orleans 17—A tricky one. These clubs haven't met in regular season play. Bill Brown leading league with eight touchdowns but Viking quarterback Joe Kapp and Gary Cuozzo a little beat up. King Hill picked up as last-minute sub. Saints' Bill Kilmer had three interceptions last week.

Dallas 34, Philadelphia 14—Cowboys did it in Philadelphia two weeks ago and should repeat, although Eagles will be tougher with Norm Snead at controls. Loss of Dan Reeves a blow to Dallas.

New York 37, Atlanta 14—Norm Van Brocklin's Falcons won't be able to handle Fran Tarkenton's explosive offense.

Washington 34, Pittsburgh 21—Steelers are going to beat somebody soon but not the Skins with Sonny Jurgensen at the controls.

Cleveland 24, St. Louis 21—Give edge to Browns on Bill Nelson over Jim Hart or Charlie Johnson.

Purdue, Ohio State Game Rated No. 1

By MIKE RECHT
Associated Press Sports Writer
Purdue and Ohio State, the Big 2 of the Big Ten, collide in college football's No. 1 game Saturday.

Purdue, ranked first in the country and a strong choice in the conference, rates a two touchdown favorite, but expects plenty of trouble from the unbeaten and fourth-ranked Buckeyes.

Second-ranked Southern California has its hands full against host Stanford, No. 18, and sixth-ranked Kansas travels to Lincoln, Neb., for a meeting with No. 9 Nebraska.

Penn State, No. 3, must face UCLA on the road and Tennessee No. 10, travels to Georgia Tech. Notre Dame, No. 5, and up more points than usual.

Toughest game of the day, perhaps toughest of season, Baltimore 27, San Francisco 17—Earl Morrall doing excellent job as sub for John Unitas with 10 TD passes in four wins. Colts have beaten 49ers 12 straight times and don't figure to stop now.

Detroit 21, Chicago 17—After Bill Ford lowered the boom on the Lions following last week's loss in Minnesota they should come out hungry for Bear meat. Bears have quarterback trouble but Gale Sayers will make it closer than last time.

Minnesota 28, New Orleans 17—A tricky one. These clubs haven't met in regular season play. Bill Brown leading league with eight touchdowns but Viking quarterback Joe Kapp and Gary Cuozzo a little beat up. King Hill picked up as last-minute sub. Saints' Bill Kilmer had three interceptions last week.

Dallas 34, Philadelphia 14—Cowboys did it in Philadelphia two weeks ago and should repeat, although Eagles will be tougher with Norm Snead at controls. Loss of Dan Reeves a blow to Dallas.

New York 37, Atlanta 14—Norm Van Brocklin's Falcons won't be able to handle Fran Tarkenton's explosive offense.

Washington 34, Pittsburgh 21—Steelers are going to beat somebody soon but not the Skins with Sonny Jurgensen at the controls.

Aggies Open Defense of SWC Crown

By DENNE H. FREEMAN
Associated Press Sports Writer
The Texas Aggies open defense of their Southwest Conference title Saturday night against Texas Tech in the friendly confines of "holler canyon" and the experts are forecasting a dilly of an offensive battle.

A&M got its momentum for its championship drive last year defeating Tech 28-24 on the last play of the game.

But no matter what happens in this one Tech coach J.T. King doesn't figure it will decide the championship.

"There are others on down the road and I think it will be a wide open race right to the end," King says.

A near-capacity crowd of 48,000 is expected in Kyle Field to see a duel of the quarterbacks—Edd Hargett of A&M and Joe Matulich of Tech.

Tech is unbeaten, having defeated Texas and Colorado State and tying Cincinnati. The Aggies have lost narrowly to Louisiana State and Florida State while defeating Tulane.

"I think we're a better team now than at this time last year," says Aggie coach Gene Stallings. "We were beaten badly once last year and we haven't lost badly this season."

Two other conference games and a crucial interconference battle also are on tap Saturday. Undeclared Arkansas 3-0 hosts Baylor 0-3 before a Dad's Day crowd of 41,000 in a day game at Fayetteville.

Baylor's porous defense has allowed 38.7 points per game. The Arkansas offense has been rolling in high gear behind sophomore quarterback Bill Bradley and running backs Bill Burnett and David Dickey.

Coach John Bridgers of Baylor is undecided on whether to start sophomore Steve Stuart or junior Alvin Flynn at quarterback. Last year Baylor managed a 10-10 tie against the Razorbacks and held an overall 26-19-1 edge in the rivalry. Arkansas rides a 17-7 victory over Texas Christian last week into the game.

Old rivals TCU and SMU clash in a night tussle at Fort Worth. The Mustangs 2-1 have the nation's leading passer in Chuck Hixson and the nation's leading receiver in Jerry LeVias. The Horned Frogs are bolstered by the ground power of Ross Montgomery and Norman Bulach, but have only a 1-2 mark, including the SWC loss to Arkansas.

WORLD-FAMOUS conductor Leonard Bernstein takes a drink of Rhine wine on arriving at Bonn, West Germany, for a concert with the New York Philharmonic. Bernstein, who is retiring as conductor of the orchestra at the end of this season, is on a five-week tour of Europe with the Philharmonic. Ignoring standard orchestral fare, he conducted modern American works in six sold-out concerts in Germany.

Baylor Game Turnabout for Broyles

By HARRY KING
Associated Press Writer
FAYETTEVILLE, Ark. (AP) — Arkansas coach Frank Broyles gets two looks each year at a fired-up football team opening its Southwest Conference season.

He likes what he sees the first time—his Razorbacks going around is something else. Broyles is on the other side of the fence watching Baylor play Arkansas.

Saturday at Fayetteville, it'll be the second verse. The Razorbacks opened their SWC season last week with a 17-7 victory over TCU and this week must take on a Baylor team Broyles is confident will be fired up.

"They try to put everything together to start their conference season," he says. "They'll be ready to play us."

"They are in a position of playing us tough just like we're in a position to play TCU tough," says Broyles. "They are just as fired up for us as we are for TCU."

Although Baylor is winless in three starts, Broyles is impressed with the offense that has scored 62 points.

"They have made more yards on us in the last 10 years than any other team," he says. "There's no reason to think it will be any different Saturday."

Considering the $15,000 that went to each man on the winning team, you'd have to call it a money play.

New Job for Joe

PROVIDENCE, R.I. — (NEA)—Joe Mullany, Providence College's basketball coach, has a new job. He has been named assistant to the director of athletics, the Rev. Aloysius B. Begley, O.P.

Oakland 31, San Diego 20—Raiders need one more win to tie the Chargers' 1960-61 record of 15 straight. Oakland averaging 40 points a game.

Boston 21, Houston 20—Patriots home after 41-10 bombing by Oakland, could get well against Houston which floundered last week without Pete Beathard.

Cleveland 24, St. Louis 21—Give edge to Browns on Bill Nelson over Jim Hart or Charlie Johnson.

Miami 21, Buffalo 14 (Saturday night)—Dolphins coming off upset of Oilers. Bills still having trouble with attack, bowing to Chiefs 18-7.

Fran Tarkenton Says:

the passer—but with finesse. Bruce Mahler, who came to the Giants from Detroit, told me that Alex Karras, their great defensive tackle, has three different moves on a pass rush. And moves were something that used to be associated only with receivers.

South bid his hand with all the delicacy of a sledge hammer. He might have opened with a forcing two bid without straining himself but he chose the conservative bid of just one spade. Then, when North gave a two-diamond response South could find no way to show his great strength except by barging right into Blackwood.

We don't know what he would have done if North had shown two aces but when North could show only one South settled for the small slam in spades.

South's play was just as bang-bang as his bidding. He drew trumps, cashed dummy's ace and king of diamonds to discard one club, ruffed a third diamond only to find that the queen had failed to appear. Then he ran off three hearts in order to get rid of another club.

All this had taken place with lightning speed but there was considerable cogitation after East followed low to the lead of a club from dummy. He might still be studying if West hadn't shown him both the ace and queen of clubs.

South could have saved himself all that useless study and also made his slam contract if he had just stopped to try to count to 12 at trick one. Then he would have played the deuce of spades from dummy and a high spade from his own hand.

This would leave the nine of spades as an extra entry for dummy's diamonds. At trick two he would have led a diamond to dummy's ace, then he would ruff a diamond, return to dummy with the nine of trumps, ruff another diamond, draw the last trump, cash three hearts to get rid of one club, discard two more on the king and jack of diamonds and make his slam.

Of course, he would have made a grand slam on his line of play if the queen of diamonds had fallen on the third diamond lead but South was in six and should have taken the most likely play to produce 12 tricks.

Q—I am a woman, 47. I have little red spots on my arms and chest that look like blood under my skin. What causes them? Are they anything to worry about?

A—Whether the spots are pinpoint in size or large spots that look like bruises, they are a form of purpura. The causes fall into three groups: (1) Those due to local injury (insect bites, snake bite, sprains, ruptured varicose veins and trauma), (2) capillary damage associated with chemical poisoning, acute infections

More Local Melons Amaze Folks at the HemisFair

Carter Russell and Pod Rogers recently returned from a second trip to HemisFair at San Antonio. This trip was purposed to to acclaim the attention of the many World's Fair visitors concerning Hope's high watermelons and to make a film and video tape of ski whiz Mundo Villegas skiing on watermelon rinds. This feat was achieved by Villegas in August when Rogers and Russell went on their initial publicity trip.

A truck load of melons was taken on the first trip but this time the 3 1968 Champions, all over 100 lb. each, and several just under 100 lb. filled the car Hope furnished. Along the way from Arkansas through Texas the melons were the object of astonishment.

September 19th was Florida's day at the HemisFair but Hope's melons took over the show. Such dignitaries as Gov. Kirk of Fla.; famous songster Anita Bryant; Gov. Connally of Texas and Fla. Citrus Queen, Patty Bohannon; and Miss Fla., according to San Antonio TV announcers, were upstaged by the Hope melons.

from the famous Club de Esquis, Acapulco, Mexico. He skiled on large melon halves in August pictured in the Star earlier but couldn't repeat the same accomplishment for the filming to be used for promotion by the Chamber of Commerce.)

Part of the Ski Show cast showing that the melons were not only ornamental but were also extremely delicious, as well.

Look closely and you will see Tom Kendall the muscle man of the show being loaded with the champion melon and readied for the takeoff around the Lagoon for TV pictures.

Jerry Lee Lewis, famous TV and recording personality, (shown here with Rogers and Russell) stopped in Dallas to admire the 117 1/2 lb. champion melon grown by Lester Kent. The melon was taken to the HemisFair and put on display at the Ark. Pavilion for the week. Later it was carried to Little Rock and presented to the Razorbacks when they played Okla. State University.

Moments later Kendall and the watermelon make a tremendous splash as they enter the water.

Johnson Tells Voters to Go Democratic

By WILLARD H. MOBLEY
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson has moved full force into the political campaign, telling a nationwide audience that a Democratic ballot will be a vote for "triumphs of the people."

Speaking Thursday night on BC radio time purchased by the International Ladies Garment Workers Union, the President contrasted the record and prospects of the Democratic ticket of Hubert H. Humphrey and Edmund S. Muskie, and the Republicans, Richard M. Nixon and Spiro T. Agnew.

"From Hubert Humphrey's on the USS Lexington in the Pacific. One of the original seven astronauts, only he and Air Force Col. L. Gordon Cooper Jr. are still flight rated.

Schirra logged nine hours and 13 minutes in space aboard his Sigma 7 Mercury spaceship, Oct. 3, 1962. He was 39 then.

In December 1965, he teamed with Air Force Lt. Col. Thomas P. Stafford in Gemini 6 for another 26 hours in space.

With the Apollo 7 flight, he becomes the most experienced spaceman alive, American or Russian. It will be his third blast-off, and, he has decided, his last.

"I think when I find I'm just too plain tired, when I can't keep up the pace, this very rapid pace, then I would personally consider it . . . There is some point in your life, and a man can judge fairly well, if he's honest with himself. And this is much too important a business for me to just have personal pride and keep on going until I might stumble," he said.

"I'll have to learn when to hang up my spurs."

Schirra is the father of two children, a veteran of 27 years of naval service beginning with the U.S. Naval Academy at 18. He has won three Distinguished Flying Crosses, two Air Medals, two space agency Distinguished Service Medals and one Exceptional Service Medal. He has a shelf full of other air trophies and awards.

past—from so many years of elected responsibility—the direction his presidency will take is quite clear," Johnson said.

"It is toward that better educated, better housed, healthier and more prosperous America that we have begun to achieve—all of us—during these past five years.

"My fellow Americans, the gains America has made in these years were not won by the Republican party; and they are not going to be held and enlarged by the Republican party. Indeed, by their words in this election campaign, Republican candidates for the presidency, the vice presidency and the Congress, have already promised to dismantle what you—the American people—have built in these years.

"They promise nothing more or less than to pull this nation downward, to pull it into another cycle of Republican reaction and inaction. And in doing so they really promise to pull America apart."

It was Johnson's first avowedly partisan speech of the 1968 campaign, and the White House declined to predict how much more such activity there will be.

Johnson classified third-party candidate George C. Wallace as one of the "harsh political voices in the air that seek to divide our country and our people."

"Americans are too wise to waste their votes on a false prophet of fear," he said.

Neither, he said, will they agree with Wallace's assessment that "there is not a dime's worth of difference" between Nixon and Humphrey. He said there is "all the difference between daylight and darkness" and added that the people know the record.

"They know that Nixon is the one who cast the tie-breaking vote that killed aid to education back when he was vice president," Johnson said.

"They know that Nixon is the one who said that Medicare 'would do more harm than good.' And they know that Nixon is the one who speaks for the Republican party—Mr. Nixon's Republican party—that always opposes so much vital and progressive legislation."

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — On paper, Arkansas should have no trouble with Baylor Saturday at Fayetteville.

The game appears to be a complete mismatch—the undefeated Razorbacks against the winless Bears.

Baylor's defensive unit, which is liberally sprinkled with sophomores, has given up 116 points, including 48 to LSU and 40 to Indiana.

Benefit for Democrats

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actor Burt Lancaster says he will hold a party Sunday to raise money for the defense of more than 400 persons arrested at Chicago in disorders during the Democratic National Convention.

Lancaster said the affair in his Bel Air home is being sponsored by the Committee of Arts and Letters for Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy. He said the money will be turned over to the American Civil Liberties Union to defend those arrested.

Acting as waiters and waitresses will be Paul Newman, Julie Adams, Leonard Nimoy, Donna Reed, Carl Reiner, Jill St. John, Rod Serling, Joanne Woodward, Don Murray and others with the committee, he said.

Declares ABC Can't Issue Drinks Permits

LITTLE ROCK (AP)—Chancellor John T. Jernigan ruled today that the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board lacks the authority to issue mixed drink permits.

The judge said he would order the board not to issue any more of the controversial Class 6 permits and also would direct the board to recall and cancel those it has already issued.

The board issued five more permits Thursday, bringing the total number of such permits to 40.

Jernigan announced his decision in a letter to attorneys for the ABC Board and the Christian Civic Foundation of Arkansas.

The issuance of the permits was challenged by Atty. Gen. Joe Purcell, who had held earlier in an opinion that the permits were invalid.

Jernigan instructed the attorney general's office to prepare a proposed order which would be in accord with the judge's notification.

Joe Caspard, director of the ABC Board, said he did not know if the ruling would be appealed. He also said he didn't know if the clubs that have already been granted Class 6 permits would be allowed to operate under them during the legal steps involved in an appeal.

Caspard said the board probably would follow any action that is recommended by its attorney. He said he didn't know whether all of the permits issued by the board would be cancelled if additional litigation ensues.

The permits issued by the board were issued only in counties that have authorized the sale of liquor. Purcell held that the permits went aground of the law because they allow liquor to be sold in mixed drink form.

Purcell's suit challenging the issuance of the permits involved no testimony. The issues were discussed upon stipulations of facts and memorandum briefs.

Wally Schirra Is Old Man Spacewise

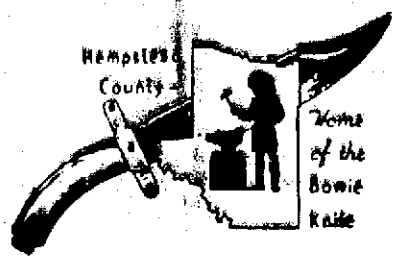

By JOHN BARBOUR
AP Science Writer
SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — There are very few ways that Wally Schirra shows his age. One is the fact that he has an 18-year-old son. Another is his birth certificate. That document shows that Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr. was born on March 12, 1923, in Hackensack, N.J. What it doesn't say is that at 45 Schirra becomes the oldest man ever to fly into space.

In what would seem to be a young man's game, Schirra looks the part of the command pilot of Apollo 7. He has crammed more harrowing experiences into his 45 years than most men meet in a lifetime. He was a jet fighter-bomber pilot in the Korean War, racking up 90 missions. He helped develop the lethal air-to-air Sidewinder missile, a heat-seeking explosive that could be as hazardous to the firer as it was to the target.

He has test piloted a number of Navy jets, logging 3,300 hours in jets and 4,300 in all types of aircraft. He was a fighter pilot

Takes 2 to Debate

End of Fast Time

Democratic tub-boaters are taunting Nixon with the cry that he's "afraid" to meet Humphrey in a presidential television debate. Republicans start brush it off with a Senate maneuver that virtually kills any prospect that the debate will be held.

In the Senate Thursday Everett McK. Dirksen, Republican leader from Illinois, stopped cold a drive to suspend the "equal time" provision and permit a free radio-TV meeting between the two parties' nominees.

Had I been in Dirksen's shoes I would have done the same thing. Debates are valuable at times — if they happen to serve the national interest — but I don't see how a debate would help anyone right now except Humphrey.

Once before Nixon permitted himself to be taunted into a national televised debate — with the young, photogenic millionaire John F. Kennedy — when the poor boy already had the election won, only to lose the closest present vote in history simply because a camera wasn't kind to him. Later it appeared that Kennedy's make-up man was a genius while Nixon's was a bum.

The Nixon camp isn't going to make the same mistake twice. Humphrey is the one who's in trouble. The political rule is that when you're ahead stay there — don't help your opponent get a bigger audience for himself.

Debate has a point. But so does strategy.

You think America today is highway-minded because of the universal automobile? Well, you are wrong. America was highway-minded nearly 200 years ago when travel was by horseback or carriage and the automobile was undreamed-of.

The first North American turnpike was opened in 1797 between Philadelphia and Lancaster, Pa. It was financed by the public sale of 1,000 shares at $300 per share and the over-subscription was so heavy they had to stage a lottery to return the surplus to would-be investors.

I got these facts from a brochure on Early American Trails published by the microfilm division of the Bell & Howell company.

When does Daylight Saving Time end? Inquiries coming into The Star were persuading me I ought to look into the matter — when Louis Graves, editor of the Nashville News, saved me the trouble.

In his Facts and Fancies column of the News dated today Louis reports you should turn your clock back one hour when you go to bed Saturday night, Oct. 26, as the nation returns to standard time Sunday, Oct. 27. The Nashville editor concludes with this paragraph:

"The general time rule is that DST comes in at 2 a.m. the last Sunday in April and lasts until 2 a.m. the last Sunday in October."

Muskie's Net Worth Placed at $106,468

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Sen. Edmund S. Muskie says his financial net worth is $106,468, the bulk of it in real estate and securities.

Muskie, the Democratic vice presidential candidate, listed his home and property in Bethesda, Md., as having a market value of $65,000 while his home in Kennebunk, Maine, was valued at $30,000.

"However, these have mortgages payable in the amounts of $38,026 and $12,621, respectively," he said in a financial statement issued while he was campaigning in New Jersey Thursday.

The Maine senator listed securities with a market value of $14,940. He also listed assets of $11,000 in household goods and personal effects; $4,780 as market value for automotive vehicles; $12,930 as the cash surrender value of life insurance policies and $19,550 in contributions to the U.S. Civil Service Retirement Fund.

What You Dream of Doing Is What Keeps You Young in Heart

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP) — It isn't what you do that keeps you young in heart—it's what you dream of doing.

Life is a long flight from reality, and fantasy is as necessary to the mind's health as bread and meat are to bodily strength. Science has found through experimental testing that if people are kept from dreaming while asleep they tend to become neurotic.

The same thing is probably true of people when they are awake. Show me a man who doesn't spend a considerable portion of his time daydreaming and I'll show you a man who's heading for an ulcer or the buttefly net.

Our daily worries are prison bars; our daydreams are magic escapes into brief but enchanting freedom, bright journeys of refreshment for the rut-stale soul.

Probably the best of all vehicles for daydreaming is a swivel chair, preferably one by a window. The office convict can lean back, stare out the window with blank eyes as if he were pondering a business problem of weighty concern and—zoom!—he's off and miles away mentally.

Some people have lived so long in Dullsville they have trouble thinking of something interesting to daydream about. But the choice is limitless. Why not dream of doing something you've heard about but never tried? For example, you might marry the boss's blue-eyed daughter.

Not much timber left like the 10 acres being cut now on the John Lloyd farm near Hope on Highway 23. Pictured above is John Lloyd with the largest tree cut. The tree ran 3,500 board feet. It made three 17 foot logs, one 13 foot log and two nine foot logs. Mr. Lloyd said 10,000 feet had been cut on less than an acre. In the bottom photo Mr. Lloyd points to one truck load of 4,531 board feet.

The acreage has been in the Lloyd family for five generations and this is the first cut ever made. Carl Hill of De-light is cutting the trees and the buyer is Arkla Chemical Corp. of Gurdon, plywood manufacturers.

Associate Commissioner Wm. H. Moore who heads the Federal Programs Division, announced this week.

This amount may vary slightly when final calculations on allotments are completed sometime next month, Moore said. In all cases, however, counties will be receiving approximately eight percent less Title I money than last year, Moore explained. He added that a formula readjustment of the number of eligible children for school districts within each county has accounted for a slight increase in a few school districts and reductions beyond eight percent in others.

The Hope District is receiving $6,224 (less) than it received in 1967-68. Its Title I program which is planned for educationally disadvantaged children will include: under instructional activities: English — reading, foreign language, mathematics, music, social science, and special activities for handicapped; under supportive services: attendance, clothing, food, guidance counseling, medical and dental care, social work, transportation, and books and supplies.

Post Office Abandons Censorship Against Pornography Mail

By MALCOLM BARR
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Post Office has abandoned censorship as a weapon in the war against smut and is training its guns only on dealers who mail pornography to people who complain.

Main goal of this new strategy, says Chief Postal Inspector Harry B. Montague, is to keep advertisements for smut out of the hands of children and young people.

Montague indicates the heat is off consenting individuals who use the mails to exchange obscene photographs and reading matter.

Montague said in an interview that since 1957, the courts and the Justice Department have hindered the Post Office in its fight against pornography, and battle lines had to be redrawn.

Montague, chief inspector since 1961, now largely relies on individual protests from the public.

He and the 1,080 "Post Office policemen" across the nation have been helped by a six-month old federal antipandering law.

Acting under this statute, the Post Office has received since April nearly 75,000 complaints about material which recipients said they'd received through the mails and which was "erotically arousing or sexually provocative."

The new law makes it possible for individuals to demand that pornography peddlers be ordered to remove their names from any mailing list the peddler owns or controls.

Violations are referred to the Justice Department which can apply to federal courts to force compliance with the law.

Pornography dealers, on the other hand, aren't completely displeased with the measure. It has a reverse effect—weeding out from their mailing lists those who object to pornography and leaving on them the names of persons who may have an interest in ordering from dealer catalogues.

Americans Fail to Trap Enemy

By GEORGE ESPER
Associated Press Writer

SAIGON (AP) — American infantrymen blocking the northwesterly invasion corridors to Saigon tried to trap some 300 enemy troops today, but the bulk of them apparently slipped away.

A heavy bombardment on their positions by jet fighter-bombers, helicopter gunships and artillery killed 26 of the enemy force before they got away. U.S. casualties were put at six men killed and 16 wounded.

The fighting swirled through rice paddies and thick hedgerows 27 miles northwest of Saigon, a mile from where American ground and air forces killed 147 North Vietnamese soldiers Monday and Tuesday.

It is a familiar battleground, long dominated by the veteran North Vietnamese 101st Regiment and the Viet Cong Cu Chi Regiment.

The fighting broke out Thursday morning when about 400 infantrymen drew heavy fire from troops dug in along the hedgerows surrounding a hamlet near the district town of Trang Bang.

Then 600 reinforcements rushed in and the Americans attempted to put a cordon around the enemy force, estimated to be a battalion.

Fighting continued until nightfall, but the bulk of the enemy force apparently slipped out under the cover of darkness this morning.

U.S. infantrymen clash with enemy forces 29 miles outside Saigon and seize 2½ tons of war supplies.

Else reported the guidance and navigation system was "go."

Mission Control Center said the mighty booster rocket performed flawlessly during its 10 minutes of powered flight, accelerating the spacecraft to 17,500 miles an hour and drilling it into orbit.

Success of the Apollo 7 flight may open the door for another Apollo crew to orbit the moon in December, a vital step toward landing men on the moon next year.

The spacecraft was to remain mated to the booster second stage, called the S4B, for about three hours, just as it will be on a moon flight.

After two orbits, the Apollo Command and Service module, which holds the crew, will inch forward and separate from the S4B.

The crew then flies in formation with the spent booster for a time before moving 83 miles out in front to get into position for a rendezvous late Saturday.

While attached to the S4B, the spacecraft is 113 feet, 3 inches long and weighs 69,034 pounds.

At separation from the S4B, the 16,000-pound Apollo Command and Service Module will still be larger by two tons than any flown by the Russians and 12 tons larger than the two-man Gemini spacecraft.

Among those watching the spectacular liftoff of America's first manned flight in nearly two years was Cunningham's wife, Lo Ella. She and their two children, Brian, 8, and Kimberly, 5, watched from a boat floating on a river near Cape Kennedy.

The families of Schirra and Elsie watched on television at their homes near the Manned Spacecraft in Houston, Tex.

Flight May Open Door to Moon Orbit

By HOWARD BENEDICT

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — A space veteran and two rookies rode the world's largest manned spacecraft into orbit today on an 11-day adventure that could place America firmly on the path to the moon.

Navy Capt. Walter M. Schirra Jr., Air Force Maj. Donn F. Elsie and civilian astronaut Walter Cunningham, dressed for the moon in the new bubble-topped lunar suits, hurtled into orbit aboard the 69,000-pound Apollo 7. If the flight goes well, it ends after 11 days and 4½ million miles of flight through space.

Thousands of people lined Atlantic beaches as the Saturn 1B rocket, the most powerful booster ever used for a U.S. manned flight, slugged the spacecraft into orbit, riding a tail of fire the length of a football field.

The eight first stage engines, generating 1.6 million pounds of thrust—more power than 100 jet fighter planes—ignited at 11:03 a.m. EDT, roared into the crystal blue sky and curved downward.

Schirra said shortly after ignition that the ride "was a little bumpy," but six minutes later he said it was "riding like a dream."

Elsie reported the guidance and navigation system was "go."
